Risks of Email Communication

Email is a widely-used form of communication and can be convenient for patients to exchange information with a healthcare practitioner. However, using email to share medical information poses risks and the patient should be aware, understand and accept such risks including, but not limited to, the following:

- The privacy and security of email communication cannot be guaranteed
- Emails can be used to introduce viruses into computer systems
- Emails are easy to forge, easy to forward (sometimes accidentally) and may exist indefinitely

The healthcare practitioner/and or Integrative staff will use reasonable means to protect the security and confidentiality of email information sent and received. However, because of the risks outlined above, the healthcare practitioner/and or Integrative staff cannot guarantee the security and confidentiality of email communication and will not be liable for improper disclosure of confidential information. Therefore, the patient must consent to the use of email for patient information. Consent to the use of email includes agreement to the following conditions:

- Emails to and from the patient concerning diagnosis or treatment may be printed and placed into the patient's physical chart
- The healthcare practitioner may forward emails internally to the Integrative staff and to those involved, as necessary, for diagnosis, treatment, healthcare operations, and other handling
- The healthcare practitioner and/or Integrative staff is not responsible for information loss due to technical malfunctions
- The patient should not use email for emergencies or other time-sensitive matters
- The patient is responsible for updating email addresses and informing the healthcare practitioner and/or Integrative staff of any information that the patient does not want sent by email
